Department of Art

The Department of Art offers two majors and three minors. They offer a major and minor in art history and criticism, a major and minor in studio art, and a minor in digital arts (see separate listing for DIA minor in this Bulletin).

The undergraduate programs in Art are designed to provide the student with a thorough background in the history and criticism of art, as well as sound training in studio techniques and theory. The courses of study, while allowing students a considerable degree of choice, will also usually fulfill requirements for admission to graduate study or preparation for professional work in the field.

Art History and Criticism majors acquire a thorough foundation in the history of Western art and architecture, from ancient to modern, with tracks also in non-Western art, and such practical aspects of the discipline as gallery management.

Studio Art majors concentrate on the creative, technical, and practical aspects of the discipline, acquiring a broad-based background in drawing, design, painting, and sculpture, plus specialized tracks in ceramics, printmaking, photography, electronic media, and computer imaging. In addition, majors are expected to acquire a sound foundation in art history and criticism with the emphasis on modernism.

Department of Art graduates who go on to work in the discipline usually acquire some postgraduate training, which may include anything from a few additional courses to such advanced graduate degrees as the M.A., M.F.A., or Ph.D. Studio Art graduates hold teaching positions up to and including the college, university, and professional school level; others work as commercial artists, printers, photographers, and designers. Art History and Criticism graduates hold teaching positions in colleges and universities; others work as gallery or museum administrators, or as art critics.

Degree Requirements - Art History and Criticism

Requirements for the Major in Art History and Criticism (ARH)

The major in Art History and Criticism (ARH) leads to the Bachelor of Arts degree. With the major in Art History, the student acquires a broad background in art history at the foundation level, and then chooses from the full range of courses at the advanced level for a more thorough knowledge of art history in two or more areas of concentration. All courses offered for the major must be passed with a letter grade of C or higher. Completion of the major requires 39 credits, at least 18 of which must be upper division. Art History transfer students must take at least 12 upper division ARH credits for the major at Stony Brook.

1. Foundations: Three introductory art history courses (9 credits):
   • ARH 202 Arts of the Ancient World
   • ARH 204 Arts in the Age of Exploration
   • ARH 206 Modern Art

2. Electives: Seven courses in Art History and Criticism (21 credits) to include at least one course in two of the following areas of concentration:
   • Ancient and Medieval art and architecture: ARH 300, ARH 301, ARH 302, ARH 305, ARH 325
   • Renaissance (14th to 16th century) and Early Modern (17th to 18th century) art and architecture: ARH 306, ARH 307, ARH 310, ARH 314, ARH 315, ARH 316, ARH 320, ARH 337

3. Advanced: At least one 400-level seminar (ARH 400, ARH 420, or ARH 490).

4. Either two studio classes (ARS), or two intermediate level foreign language classes, usually French or German (especially for students planning graduate work in art history). Students may request approval for another language from the Director of Undergraduate Studies.
5. Upper-Division Writing Requirement:
Students must demonstrate acceptable writing skills in the discipline before they graduate. This can be achieved by completing a course designated as WRTD, such as ARH 308.

Students should consult with the department advisor to ensure that their plan for completing the Upper Division Writing Requirement is consistent with university graduation requirements for General Education. Students completing the Stony Brook Curriculum (SBC) must complete a course that satisfies the "Write Effectively within One's Discipline" (WRTD) learning objective to graduate. The Upper Division Writing Requirement is consistent in most cases with the SBC learning outcomes for WRTD.
